

SHASTA CASCADE/NORTH SIERRA

Geology dominates this land of contrasts where the volcanic Cascade Range shares the Sierra Nevada's northern domain. From boiling, mud-spitting fumaroles to vast verdant forests and sparkling lakes, nature is king up here where a few quaint towns mark the only human intrusion.

This driving tour heads southeast along Highway 89 from beautiful McArthur-Burney Falls Memorial State Park, making stops at several mountain parks, lakes, and historic sites before looping back north on Highway 395 and ending at Eagle Lake, just north of Susanville.
